

PROBATE COURT

The Probate Court probates wills, appoints personal representatives to administer estates of deceased persons, (whether or not the decedent left a will or died intestate), oversees the administration to ensure that all Inventories and Appraisements and accountings are filed and that the estate is distributed according to the decedent's will or by law. Probate Court also appoints conservators to administer funds on behalf of minors and oversees said administrations to ensure the minor is protected; and issues marriage licenses. The Mental Health Division of the Probate Court has jurisdiction over the involuntary commitment of the mentally ill, alcoholics, and drug addicts, and appoints guardians and/or conservators for adults who have been adjudicated as incapacitated. The Probate Court has exclusive original jurisdiction over any litigation concerning the above items and also hears and determines matters concerning trust estates and accountings and/or removal of attorneys-in-fact.
